

Expeditionary Combat Readiness Center

The Expeditionary Combat Readiness Center (ECRC) provides proactive support to Navy Individual Augmentees (IA) and Ad-Hoc units employed in or in support of overseas contingency operations.

ECRC directly assists IA Sailors by supervising the Continental United States (CONUS) portion of the IA process to include uniform issue, equipping, combat and mission-specific training, and deployment. ECRC also provides continual reach back support throughout the IA process including in-theater mission tracking, administrative support, and weapons and gear return and re-utilization.

ECRC is the administrative parent command for IA Sailors with overseas contingency operations.

“It was a nice welcome home. Stepping off of that plane and seeing my fellow Sailors made me feel welcome and that the job I did in Iraq didn’t go unnoticed. It was like a hero’s welcome home!”

“ECRC exists to support the Sailor! Individual Augmentees of all types (OSAs, GSAs, RC MOBs and IAMMs) plus their families should contact us 24/7 if they’ve got a question or problem.”

ECRC's Individual Augmentee (IA) Family Support Program

Expeditionary Combat Readiness Center:

- Assigns Action Officers (AOs) to IA mission groups. The AOs oversee the execution of mission readiness, training curriculum and schedules, and individual Sailor support as required. AOs serve as an advocate for the Sailor and provide direction and advice.
- Provides Navy Liaison Officer (LNO) teams to Army training sites to coordinate with Army trainers and support staff while also assisting Sailors with berthing, transportation, pay, and over-all individual Sailor readiness.
- Closely interfaces with Navy component commanders about deployed IAs and their required support, both per individual and mission.
- Coordinates with the U.S. Central Command Warrior Transition Program (WTP) that provides logistical, administrative and medical support to the redeploying IA Sailor. ECRC's initiative has saved the Navy more than $16 million annually by working with WTP monitoring equipment turn in and re-issue.
- Coordinates logistic support for IA Sailors going through the deployment and demobilization process.

Individual Augmentee (IA) Sailor and Family Support Program:

- Serves as a conduit to the Individual Augmentee family while the IA Sailor is completing required training in the United States, preparing for deployment, supporting missions in overseas theaters and returning home.
