

#562: Insert Belt A Into Opening C

Is that a window and an air conditioner? If so, why are the brackets offset? How will they plug it in? How will the nice cool air get into the apartment? Why is there a hole in the bricks? Is that a belt or a tether attached to the device? Why stick one end of it through the bricks -- is there an anchor inside? How high off the ground are these two characters?

So many questions. And here's one more: Are two heads really better than one?
