COMMANDER'S SAFETY VISION

Naval Aviation is inherently dangerous business. However through diligent application of Operational Risk Management, making judicious, timely risk decisions, at the right level, we will realize mission success and always bring our people and our aircraft home.

On the flight line, likewise we must employ competence, compliance, and awareness through teamwork to eliminate never events and to mitigate against error producing conditions. Through institutionalized application of Convergent Performance principals we will prevent ground mishaps and keep our tactically high demand Poseidon aircraft in the air, on-station, where they belong.
